Problems between Kamien and Panasus

BY JAMES SOL

A bolt from the blue between Panasus and Kamien. Pedro Leum (42), one of our beloved inhabitants, his wife got into it with KTech facilities when he bought KCT-2.35: the Slowing Serum. While this product promised that it firms the skin and helps you retain your youthful appearance, Pedro's wife had an unpleasant experience with it.

"After 1 year, my wrinkles started showing again and I still hadn't become pregnant with my sixth child", Pedro's wife told the press. "This isn't what we've paid for."

Some Slowing Serum

KCT-2.35 is part of a 15-step skincare routine. Skipping steps in this routine obviously decreases the efficacy of the treatment. But our complaint isn't completely out of the blue. The KTech Customer Service admitted that international customers often don't have access to KTech certified pharmacies nor the excellent Kamien health care system.

That's why Kamien would like to introduce new products sets. These sets include all of the products needed to complete the 15-step routine, with plenty of instructional material (text, video and images) so everyone can optimize their KTech experience. These sets are shipped internationally for free.

Pedro's wife will get a free XL set of the products as an apology. KTech has opened new pharmacies in Novos, where these skin care sets are launched with a 1+1 free deal.
